Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on February 27, 2002.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, February 27, 2002.

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any ridiculous bids.

This coin is a consignment piece and has a reserve price which has been set by the consignor. Before this coin and its brethren came to light, this issue only appeared in F or worse condition. When 120 of these coins surfaced, all in this condition, it gave us all an opportunity to own an excellent piece of Greek art. The obv has a highly spirited though somewhat disrupted quadriga with mules drawing it, while a flying Victory crowns the driver with one hand while she holds a plaque bearing the artist's initials, MAI, in the other hand. These wonderful coins have been fairly well absorbed over the years by collectors, but occasionally when we get a chance to handle one of these, it pleases us greatly. Mint State 5750

For that reason it is obvious that these two coins mark the transition of the types of Silenus (80 & 81) 2000

149. ZACYNTHUS; Drachm or one-third stater, 500 BC, 3.50g., NC 1885, Pl. 3, #1, SNG Rosen-232. Obv: Tripod; between legs, dot to l., crescent to r. Rx: Incuse square, divided into six irregular triangles. Zacynthus is an important island in the Ionian Sea, about ten miles off the coast of Elis. Homer mentions it frequently. Its one city bore the same name as the island. The present archaic coin was discussed in Numismatic Chronicle, 1885, where it was described as "apparently unique." We know of no examples beyond that coin, the Rosen specimen, and the coin offered here. Extremely rare; possibly the third known specimen. All Greek island coins are rare. In that this coin bears a tripod which is usually the symbol of the games and as the island of Zycanthus is off the coast of Elis, it is certainly possible that this coin was issued in conjunction with the Olympic Games, though admittedly this theory is absolutely unproven. Though this coin is accepted as an issue of Zacynthus there are some who feel it could be a Macedonian issue, but they are probably incorrect. Tripod in high relief. VF 2200

Rx: PA (sic) PVBLICA Pax standing l. holding branch and transverse scepter. Although it approaches the official norms in style, weight and fabric, this coin is probably a good contemporary copy, as betrayed by its reverse legend omitting the X of PAX and running into the exergue, and by its die axis of approximately 9 o'clock rather than the standard 6 or 12 o'clock. On official coins the type of Pax standing with legend PAX PVBLICA appeared for the first time on Lugdunese aurei and antoniniani of Tacitus, e.g. Bastien, Lyon, nos. 13 and 29-35, pl. II-IV, suggesting that our coin might have been produced a few years after Tetricus' abdication. But it might also have been struck under Tetricus, using the common Pax standing type that had appeared under Victorinus, Gallienus, and earlier emperors with the legend PAX AVG or AVGG, and deriving the legend PAX PVBLICA from the Pax seated type that originated with Pupienus and Balbinus and was copied by the mint of Rome under Gallienus (e.g. Cunetio hoard-1133). See Cunetio hoard-3013, pl. 38, for an irregular antoninianus of Tetricus I with the same Pax standing type as our coin but legend PAX AVG. Green and brown patination. Good VF 650

574.	DIVUS VICTORINUS ; Died 79 AD, Antoninianus, 2.43g., Cunetio Hoard-2632 (1 spec.), RIC-88, C-103 (6 Fr.). Obv: DIVO VICTORINO PIO Head radiate r. Rx: PROVID[ENTIA AV]G Providentia standing l. holding wand over globe and cornucopia. Coins of Divus Victorinus are rare: indeed ten times as rare as coins of Laelian to judge from the Cunetio hoard, which contained 39 Laelians but only four Divus Victorinus! It is not surprising that Tetricus I deified Victorinus and struck coins for him, since Tetricus I's accession is said to have been arranged by Victorinus' mother Victorina. The PROVIDENTIA AVG reverse dies for the coinage of Divus Victorinus were presumably taken over from the coinage of Victorinus himself: PROVIDENTIA AVG was the latest reverse type of Victorinus as emperor (Cunetio Hoard-2577), and the type was not struck for Tetricus I or II. Von Kaenel, Britannicus, Agrippina Minor und Nero in Thrakien, Schweiz. Num. Rundschau 63, 1984, p. 142, found only two specimens of this dupondius, one in the National Museum in Athens, badly corroded, and one in trade, heavily worn and known from descriptions and a line drawing only. Apparently struck in Thrace along with the very rare bronze coins of Britannicus and Nero Caesar. The obverse legend calls Agrippina "Augusta", "Daughter of Germanicus", and "(wife) of Caesar Augustus" i.e. of Claudius. The reverse type is copied from the CERES AVGVSTA S C dupondius type of Claudius himself, but apparently omitting the legend. Von Kaenel thought he could make out traces of CERES AVGVSTA on the corroded Athens coin and an S appears in the exergue of the drawing of the trade specimen, but these seem to be errors since there is no trace of legend in either place on our somewhat better preserved example. ANTIQUITIES EGYPTIAN

877. Orange Breccia Vessel, 1991-1797BC. Egyptian miniature orange breccia container is beautifully and skillfully carved from a hard stone, much more difficult to work with than alabaster. There is a chip located on the shoulder. 1 11/16" H 2600
878. Egyptian Relief of Ankhesenamun, Limestone, 1336-1327 BC. Ankhesenamun was apparently married three times but was only The

- Great Royal Wife when she was married to Tutankhamun. She was the daughter of Akhenaten and Nefertiti, and her name was then Ankhesenpaaten. She married her father and apparently had a daughter. After the death of Ankhenaten she married Tutankhamun, who some consider to be a son of Ankhenaten and one of his secondary wives, so this could be a marriage to her half brother. Tutankhaten soon abandoned the worship of the Aten and changed his name to Tutankhamun and Ankhesenpaaten changed hers to Ankhesenamun. After the death of Tutankhamun the succession was in doubt and Ankhesenamun wrote a letter to Suppiluliumas I, King of the Hittites, asking him to send one of his son to Egypt so that she could marry and he would become King of Egypt. However the Prince and his escort were ambushed before crossing into Egypt. This was probably a plot by Horemheb, the leader of the army and a very ambitious man. Ankhesenamun then apparently married Ay, her grandfather, and he became Pharaoh. His rule was short and Horemheb assumed the throne. Ankhesenamun disappears from the scene at this time. Horemheb usurped most of the monuments and buildings of Tutankhamun, erasing his name and titles and it can be assumed also those of his wife Ankhesenamun. Cartouches of both would then seem to be very rare. H 6 1/4" SOLD

ROMAN
900.	Roman Lollius Family Stella , Marble, Roman Republic c. 200 BC to 100 AD. This Roman marble gravestone originates from the Roman Republican Period to Early First cent. AD It commemorates the life of the child Q. Lollianus, a member of the family Lollii, of Rome. The epitaph indicates this child lived to seven years, five months, and five days. At either side of the inscription are two attendant amoretti. Carved in relief, both face inward in contra-posto position. Each holds a tall spear and a prize game, one a duck, the other a rabbit. A marble grave marker such as this, in all likelihood, could only have been afforded by aristocracy. The ranks of the family Lolli included significant honorary figures such as Lollius Palicanus, elected tribune of the people, c. 70 BC, and acclaimed for having returned magisterial power to that office after it had been removed by Sulla. One of Palicanus' descendants is recorded to have been a moneyer in 45 BC, while another was Consul under Augustus in 21 BC and Governor of Gaul five years later. H. 16 3/4"(42.5 cm), W. 10 3/4" (27.3 cm)	15000
901.	Roman Marble Head of Gnaeus Domitus Corbulo , a miniature masterpiece of Roman portraiture. Corbulo, a famous Roman general, who served under Claudius and Nero, was considered the greatest general of his time., c. 1st cent. AD. Under Claudius, in 47 AD, he was made legate of Germania Inferior and warred victoriously against the Chauci led by Gannascus. He also assumed the position of Proconsul of Asia. Later, under Nero, he was awarded the title of legatus of Cappadocia and Galatia. He reorganized the Roman army in the East and in 52 AD succeeded in campaigns against Parthia to retain control over Armenia. He then introduced a new Armenian king, Tigranes. In 62 AD, however, Tigranes was removed. War resumed. Corbulo intervened again in 63 AD and successfully restored Roman prestige, achieving a Roman protectorate for the Armenian throne. Ironically, in 66 AD, a jealous and shrewd Nero plotted for Corbulo's death. He invited him to Corinth. Landing in Greece, apprised of the betrayal, the general sacrificed himself with his own sword exclaiming the words "Well deserved". This is a true master piece in Roman portraiture. The dignitary's features are in fact so exacting and captivating that his character transcends the lifelike image. Immediately, one submits to the penetrating and piercing gaze of his eyes from beneath a thick, weighted brow, his facial expression indicating thoughtful resolve. Highly desirable, marble portraits of this caliber are seldom seen outside of a museum. Lower edge of the left ear missing. H. 3 1/8"	17500
902.	Roman Portrait of Marc Anthony , Lapis Lazuli, 40BC-40AD. Marc Anthony was a soldier of great ability and a commander loved by his soldiers. After serving as a commander of cavalry under Aulus Gabinius in Palestine and Egypt he then served under Caesar in Gaul, Caesar noted his abilities and soon gave Antony important assignments. He was Caesar's man in Rome and served as Caesar's co-consul in 44 BC. He delivered Caesar's funeral eulogy after the assassination, which aroused public sentiment against the conspirators. He soon found himself at odds with Octavian, after much posturing and two treaties he found himself in Egypt where he married Cleopatra. Anthony's luck ran out at Actium and he and Cleopatra fled to Egypt where they both committed suicide. A comparison of this piece with the coin portraits of Anthony show that this is certainly a portrait of him. The chin, nose, and hair style are the same. Sculpture in semi-precious stone is rare. This head was most likely part of a bust in a private shrine, and the eyes were likely inlaid with mother of pearl or ivory with black stone centers. Note the resemblance to the bust of Marc Anthony #261 in the exhibit catalog Cleopatra of Egypt from History to Myth, Edited by Susan Walker and Peter Higg. Extremely Rare	27500
